Refused Trout Planting Causes Controversy

The refusal by the Conservation Department's district and regional fisheries supervisors to plant trout in the "kids only" stretch of the East Branch of the AuSable River, has caused quite a controversy and was the reason for a meeting held last Thursday morning.

The session held at the Grayling Bowhunters Club, who are the active overseers of the area, continued from 9:30 to 11:30 last Thursday morning.

Meeting was held by Bud Jacobs of the District Fisheries Supervisor and Max Hunt of Roscommon Regional Fisheries Supervisor. Both men said that due to budgetary reasons a cut had to be made in plantings and they thought this stretch of river was where to do it.

Supervisor Hunt said that it was not the number of fish but the cost of a stocking run that was the main reason. He did not, however, offer the club but for planting if the club would take over the plant.

Among the people of the area at the meeting were: Hans Peterson, former District Fisheries Supervisor who argued that the plant should be made; also in attendance and presumably in favor of plantings for the kids were former Conservation Commissioner George Griffith, Larry McNamara, Robert Hayes, Clarence Roberts and Russell Wright, both Conservation Officers, Bob Smock, Marion Fox, Stan Madsen, all of the Bowhunters, and William Koerkne of Lovells.

After the refusal to plant by the two men who offer no alternatives, it was decided to appeal the decision to A. B. Cook, chief of fisheries for the state for the Conservation Department. A letter explaining the problem and some of the hopes for alternatives will be forwarded to Mr. Cook.

STATE POLICE HOLD HOSPITALITY DAY

As has been the custom the last several years, the State Police will observe Michigan Week with open house "Hospitality Day" Tuesday, May 23rd, at all posts, according to Sgt. Donald A. BoBo, commanding officer of the Houghton Lake post.

Visiting hours at the Houghton Lake post will be from 10:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m., and everyone is extended a special welcome to examine the equipment and facilities and ask questions regarding the operations of the department. Officers will escort the visitors.

"While visitors are always welcome at the post, Hospitality Day offers a special opportunity to look us over and in past years many have done so," said Sgt. BoBo. "Those who call on us will learn about the services the State Police perform and how a post functions."

"To those who may not know the location of the post building, which is easily identified by a sign at the junction of U.S. 27 and M-55. Stop in to see us."

In addition to open house, the State flag as well as the United States flag will be displayed all week at the post.

Need $32,000 For Plant Bldg.

An attempt is being made in Grayling this week to raise a $32,000 industrial development fund in order to construct a factory building near Grayling that will house an industry which will manufacture wooden reels that carry heavy wire and cables.

If the money-raising venture is successful, the plant will begin operations as soon as construction is completed. The plant is now operating in Bay City where 12 men are employed. At least 16 men would be put to work if a Grayling plant is opened with the distinct possibility that 40 would be employed by the end of the year and a half.

Young of Grayling who heads the Bay City operation now and who is seeking to open the plant in Grayling. Land is expected to be made available on a railroad siding at the south end of Grayling for the new plant which would cover 10,600 feet with a good chance of enlargement in the near future. If the plan goes through, the business would be incorporated as the Grayling Reel Company, Inc.

At a meeting held on Monday evening at the Grayling Township

Hall and presided over by Dr. J. F. Cook, chairman of the Grayling Industrial Development Committee, the plan was outlined. Of the twenty men in attendance at the meeting, most pledged funds totaling $5,500 towards the project. The money invested would be paid back by the company at 6 per cent interest at the rate of $400 per month as rent going towards the purchase price plus interest.

The reels are constructed of 90 per cent aspen and that of large size which pulp mills don't particularly need, it was explained. It was estimated that at the present time within a short distance of Grayling, there now stands at least a 20 year's supply of aspen for the work. Being a fast growing tree much more would be available after that time. The reels made by the company range from 17 inches to 7 feet. They would be sold and distributed mostly in the midwest area. There are four plants now in the United States manufacturing such reels and it is estimated that 18 million dollars worth of them are sold each year. Mr. Young at the present time has an order for one-quarter of a million dollars worth of the items from the American Steel Company for the coming year.

Sawed aspen would be purchased from sawmills of the area and then be processed in the proposed Grayling plant into the finished product. The plant would probably later construct its own sawmill and buy logs directly from the cutters. Mr. Young has been offered a plant in Travers City but said he would rather remain in the Grayling area because it is in the center of the supply of raw materials.

Dr. Cook and the industrial development committee felt that if the funds could be raised, it could be done in a few days and they have set a deadline of Thursday night to make the goal. The minimum investment of $250 was set for small investors. They then could sell or seek another industry to carry on in the building.

Many industries are lost to communities throughout the state when a building ready to move into presents itself in another locality. Ready to move into factory sites have been at a premium in most areas since World War II. Mr. Young, if the fund drive is successful, will bring to Grayling the man in charge of purchasing wooden reels for American Steel and his attorney to talk to those who have invested in the project. These two men will explain the current situation in the wooden reel industry and the part that the proposed Grayling Reel Co. Inc. would play in it. It was estimated that the yearly payroll of the plant would exceed $35,000.

Following is a telegram received by Mrs. Don Gothro, drive chairman, from the state chairman: "Congratulations to you and all of the Crawford County volunteers for being the fifth Michigan Division County unit to exceed quota in the 1961 crusade. We are thrilled with your victory and will appreciate having you extend my heartfelt thanks to all your grand and wonderful volunteers." Signed George T. Guerra.

Among the volunteers not previously mentioned are Mrs. Ray Slusser and Mrs. Pat Harwood. Mrs. B. E. Henig, county chairman, and Mrs. Gothro wish to thank the Shoemaker's J. & J. store for room given to the window display, the Rialto for showing films, the merchants for displaying signs, the Avalanche for publicity, Grayling High School for cooperation in showing films, Helen Corwin for collecting at the school, Mrs. Ed Beery for public education and each and every volunteer worker and contributor. Department Called To Two Fires

The Grayling Fire Department was called to the Everett Jones home at 608 Ingram Street at 1:45 p. m. Monday night. A fire started apparently by a short circuit in the electric stove. Some difficulty with the phone system delayed notification of the department so that they were late in getting to the fire, which caused an estimated $2,000 damage to the interior of the home before being brought under control, according to Assistant Fire Chief Milow.

A fire about two weeks ago at the Raymond Denno home caused severe burns to the person of Alvin Brown, Jr., who was lighting a blaze in a stove with anti-freeze, which exploded and spread to Mr. Brown's person, putting him in the hospital also. Smoke damage of about $100 was caused by this fire, which was brought under control by members of the Denno family.

Library Friends Board Hold Session Monday

The Board of Directors of the Friends of the Crawford County Library met Monday night with Mr. W. Kumpula, chairman of the Crawford County Library Board and Mrs. H. Souders, assistant chairman. Mr. Eric Post, treasurer, reported an initial fund of over $400 as a result of the membership drive conducted by Mr. Arthur Thayer. Mrs. Schulz was directed by vote of the board to present the petitions to the supervisors pertaining to the location of the proposed new library building near the County Court House property.

Mrs. L. Welch and Mrs. B. Fowler volunteered to be on the nominating committee to replace Mrs. Schulz who is resigning. A discussion was also held regarding a finance chairman for the fund drive expected to be held this summer.

Business Eyes "Over 65" Market Here

(Special to the Avalanche)

New York — Emerging as an important element in Crawford County's economy is the plus-65 portion of its population.

This group, which has been growing steadily in number as well as in financial strength, now represents 11.0 percent of the local population.

As a result, it is becoming the sales target of merchants, manufacturers and others, who are making a deliberate effort to cater to its particular wants and, in the process, boost their own sales volumes.

A wide range of goods, designed especially for that age group, is now on the market.

In the Crawford County population, which was set at 4,971 in the recent census, were 547 people of 65 or over. This is based on data just released by the Census Bureau.

In 1950, when the previous tabulation was made, there were only 361 in that age group locally.

The rise, which amounts to 51.5 percent, was greater than that experienced in most sections of the United States, where it averaged 34.7 percent.

In the East North Central States it was 29.4 percent.

As a result of the rapid growth of this age group in Crawford County, the current ratio shows that one in every 9 local residents is 65 or over.

Nationally, there are now more than 16.5 million of these senior citizens, a dramatic increase from the 12.3 million that were counted in the previous census.

Although they have much less cash to spend than they had been graduating into the over-65 class, they have much more than the previous generation had at that age.

Their comparative well-being is due principally to private pension plans, social security payments, personal savings and investments and that most common and valuable asset of older persons—ownership of their own homes.

As to income from employment, only 4 percent of them are in the labor force.

All in all, the Department of Commerce finds, the medium income of American families of that age is $2,631 a year. Many families enjoy much more than this, but an equal proportion fall below that figure.

Despite the modest buying power of the individual family, as a group they are now able to make their influence felt by weight of numbers.

Good Legislation . . .

"Taxes and Spending Can Be Cut." That is the title of an article by Representative Bruce Alger of Texas which appeared in the April issue of Nation's Business. And in that Mr. Alger is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which writes the tax laws, his views are of more than ordinary significance.

His article begins with these paragraphs: "In pushing ahead to new legislative frontiers, the government should offer greater opportunity for the individual to improve his own condition with his own resources."

"We can meet not only our goals of more economic growth and employment, but also the threat of communism, by:

"1. Recognizing the need for major reform of our federal tax system.

"2. Adopting a tax program which will strengthen our capitalistic private enterprise society.

"3. Enlisting the support of 60 million taxpayers in this reform through a widespread awareness of the potential savings as well as tax reduction involved."

Representative Alger has some very harsh things to say about the tax system as it now exists. As he sees it, it stunts personal ambition by denying rewards for effort; has made it unduly difficult to go into business for oneself; has reduced job opportunities and contributed to inflation, and has slowed the rise in living standards. "The cause of these national blights," he says, "is the involuntary diversion of savings—the only source of private capital—from their natural flow toward urgently needed investment fund reservoirs to the federal Treasury." And, he adds, during years in which we have spent many billions of dollars to help build the strength of other nations "we have ignored at home the very lesson we are striving to teach abroad, that adequate capital funds are vital to the stability and growth of a free economy." The present tax system, with its very high rates, sorely depletes those funds.

Mr. Alger's concrete proposal for tax reduction and reform is found in a series of bills known as the Herlong-Baker bills. The principal purpose of these bills is to make major cuts in all tax brackets over a five year period. The lowest rate, now 20 per cent, would become 15 per cent; the top rate would be cut from 91 per cent to 47 per cent. At the same time, the corporation rate would be reduced, one point a year, from 52 per cent to 47 per cent. This manifestly, would release huge sums for capital investment, and other sources of economic growth. And that, as Mr. Alger views the problem, is the urgent need. He observes, "None can dispute that we must look to the—"

of those in the middle and upper brackets, for the venture funds to create jobs, start and expand businesses, make products available at prices within reach."

Two arguments have been raised in opposition to this program—that, if enacted, it would greatly increase the danger of deficit financing by the government, and that it might deprive the government of needed revenues to an extremely dangerous extent. Mr. Alger, like the bill's other advocates, has an answer. First, it is provided that rate reductions can be postponed in any year in which an unbalanced budget is threatened. Second, the sponsors are convinced that revenue loss would be made up and more by the increased tax revenue that would automatically follow industrial and business expansion.

Mr. Alger concludes: "We have in this legislation . . . dual forces for impressive and lasting public betterment—the urgently needed tax rate reform and a checkrein on government spending."

Fredoric Baptist Church Offers Jungle Film — A spectacular motion picture filmed beyond the last outpost of civilization in Viet Nam's dense jungles will be presented by Rev. D. L. Cornell, Deputation Secretary for the Worldwide Evangelization Crusade, at First Baptist Church, Frederic at 7:30 p. m. on May 14th, according to an announcement made today by the pastor, Rev. E. Lahti. Mr. and Mrs. Cornell recently returned from a survey trip into Central Viet Nam where they encountered some of the most primitive and savage tribespeople on earth. It is estimated that 400,000 of these tribespeople inhabit the jungles of Central Viet Nam. Hidden deep in the enchanting jungle they live together like animals in great longhouses which wrap around the hillsides like giant, brown caterpillars; engage in wild orgies and drunken dances, slaughter pigs, monkeys and water buffalo to sacrifice to demons; are bound by cruel and heartless custom which dictates the sawing off of the boys' and girls' six upper front teeth. The men are clothed with dirty loin cloths, and their long, matted hair is adorned with ivory sticks and bones. Colorful beads, ear and nose ornaments and handwoven wrap-around skirts make up the women's wardrobe. They live and die amidst indescribable filth, misery and spiritual darkness. Today a new and stirring chapter in the advance of Christian missions is being written by young men and women who are now penetrating this forgotten and neglected area with the message of Christ's redeeming love. 5-11-11

LUTHERAN WOMEN HOLD RALLY

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League of the Timberline Zone held their Spring Rally on April 26th at Mt. Hope Lutheran Church, Grayling. Registration began at 9:30 a. m. with name tags of World Glades made by Mrs. Wes Hayes. They signified the fact that the Missionary League helps Missions throughout the world.

Opening devotions were held at 10:00 with the Reverend Ronald Mueller of West Branch as Pastor. His theme was "Our Part in Missions". He said we must find our place in the chain of events in Missions. After the service the business meeting was opened with a welcome address by the Chairman of the local League, Mrs. B. Elmore Honig. The Timberline Zone Chairman, Mrs. D. J. McGuire of Tawas City gave the response. She also reported on the Michigan District Board Meeting held at Ann Arbor. After all business was taken care of, the election of new officers was held. Mrs. McGuire was elected President. Mrs. Ralph Taylor of East Tawas was elected Vice President and the Rev. Ronald Mueller of West Branch was elected as our new Counselor.

A delicious luncheon was served at noon by the Women's Guild. Here again, table decorations signified our Mission.

THE LEAST EXPENSIVE WAY TO SERVICE YOUR CAR

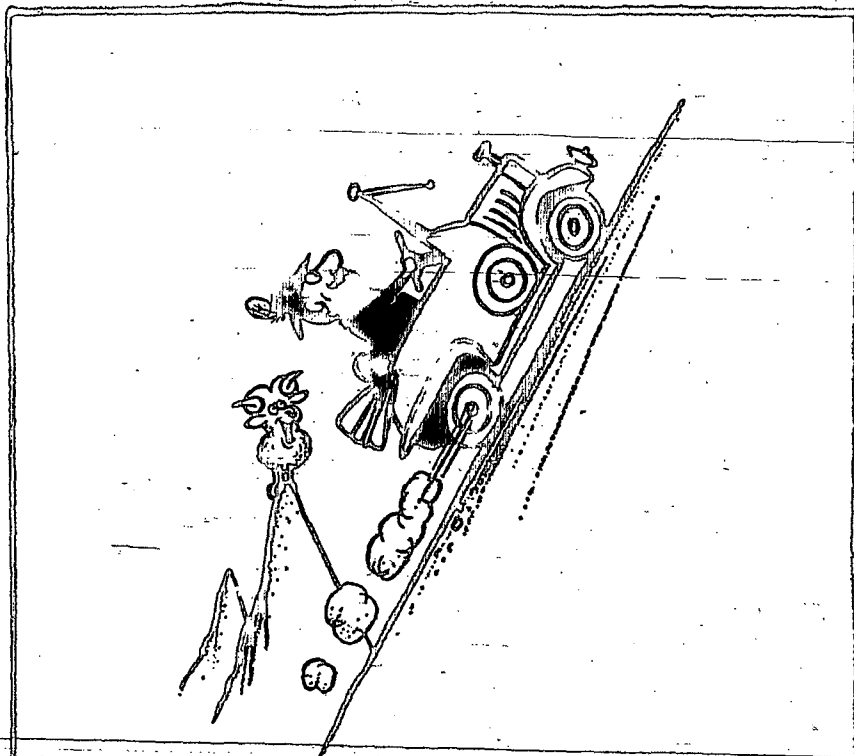

There is a simple rule to follow if you want to keep your car service bills to a minimum. That is to get that service done by the most experienced mechanic.

The reasons are fairly obvious: A fully qualified mechanic can diagnose car trouble in most cases immediately without wasting costly service time trying this or that alternative. Furthermore, once diagnosed, the trouble is remedied on a factory-set time basis under a guarantee that the customer must be completely satisfied with the job or it will be done over without further charge.

This is the way our service shop is run at Welsh Motor Sales. Whatever your trouble is we have a mechanic who has done that same job repeatedly. He acquired his specialized knowledge at factory schools where he was taught the right way as well as skill in using modern time-saving equipment. In case you think this applies only to complicated tune-ups and transmission jobs you are mistaken. Recently we had occasion to replace a customer's front wheels only to find that both wheel bearings were ruined by loose nut adjustments from the previous packing 5000 miles earlier. It is one small example of very many. Repacking should be done with a repacker and grease gun which forces old grease out of the bearings; not by just slapping new grease into the bearings by hand.

Every reputable car dealer knows more car SALES come through his service entrance than the showroom door. That is the fundamental reason he makes his service superior.
